AUTO FOR WALSH.
Chicago Fans Make Present to Their Pitching Idol.

Big Ed Walsh, famous as the spitball wonder, has just been presented an automobile by his Chicago admirers. Walsh was too clever for the Cubs in the post season series for the Chicago city championship, and besides this was too good for the Eastern opponents during the American league season. He has been the life of the White Sox for years and ranks as one of the greatest pitchers ever connected with baseball.

Walsh was a boy in the coal-mining district and spent most of his boyhood in the mines. His first job was breaking slate. Then he went through all the various stages until he became a miner. He spent his spare time, what little there was, in playing baseball, and was known as a good player. When 19 years old he got a job in the Miner-Hillard mill company of Miner, Pa., and became a member of the company's baseball team when it was suddenly discovered that he had ability as a pitcher. By keeping his eyes open for Eastern other pitchers, he developed such remarkable ability that Frank Burke of the Meriden team in the Connecticut league was impressed by his work and urged the management of the Connecticut team to secure Walsh. He went there in 1902, and pitched for a year. In 1903 he was sought for by the Newark team of the Eastern league and in 1904 he joined the White Sox of Chicago and has played there ever since. His record of games pitched during these years is as follows:

1904.....16 games
1905.....22 games
1906.....22 games
1907.....27 games
1908.....28 games
(of which he won 41)

His pitching record has been remarkable. In several games in the course of this season he has held his opponents down to no hits up to the ninth inning and was very anxious to "complete his score." This finally happened in a game pitched against Boston in September, in which the Red Sox did not make a hit or a run. Walsh is not only a splendid pitcher but a fast clean hitter and due partly to his splendid record as a great pitcher and all-around player and partly to his many qualities and winning personality, he has won great popularity among the baseball fans of Chicago and indeed everywhere. In appreciation of this the fans got together and offered Walsh made his own selection after he had thoroughly tried out all the makes shown him.

An Unpopular Discovery.

WEEK AGAINST FURBALL PASS

New York University Captain Says This is Blue's Chief Danger Point—Harvard Sees Its Need of Developing Kicking Game.

Criticism that Yale's eleven is not indicating championship form yet is given in the Yale Daily News by Captain Brennan of the New York university football team, which played the Blue on Saturday. He says:

"Yale has a good team. It follows the ball well, and goes down on punts in good form. The players keep going and can get their man, and don't stop then, but go after the backfield. I depreciate their extensive use of hands; it looked like holding to me. Your team's greatest weakness is the inability to break up the forward pass, although they are always guarding for an end run. They are generally successful in blocking kicks, in interference, as they all take part in running mack punts. I do not think they showed championship form against us, but they are a good team."

Harvard Needs Kicking Game.
One lesson that was brought home to the Harvard coaches more than any other by the Princeton game on Saturday is their need of developing a kicking game. Most of all Harvard's backfield kickers took a boot the ball over the posts with reasonable regularity when inside the 25 yard line. Of course this cannot be done unless a better offense is built for the kickers, both in punting and in bop kicking. Building up the kicking department is one of the most formidable tasks the Harvard coaches face today.

Harvard's line met for the first time this year heavier and more aggressive opponents who kept playing to their limit every minute of the contest. It was a test that the line needed and one that undoubtedly will prove of great value to the players in the three weeks before they meet Yale. To beat Yale every man from tackle to tackle will have to fight for all there is in him for every minute of the 60 minutes. Harvard has a great backfield, but the backfield cannot gain ground with an opposing stone wall coming through and with not a breach in it. Harvard has probably the best backfield in the country today, but it cannot do all the work of the team. Better generalship, a more varied attack in which the obvious does not follow every time, will give the backfield some show. The three games to come, provided the line plays the game from start to finish. The defeat by Princeton has taken the cocksureness out of Harvard and its supporters and has revealed just what is necessary to develop all the possibilities of the team. If the requirements are filled there will be much crying over the spilled milk at Princeton.

FURTHER ADVANCES.
Active Buying Lifts Market After Period of Hesitation.

New York, Nov. 6.—Under the lead of the standard railroad issues, stocks were advanced again today. The movement was preceded by a period of hesitation in the early trading, when a majority of the active stocks sagged below Saturday's close. Active buying lifted the market and during the remainder of the session prices were held firmly.

Heavy realizing kept the market in check. Stocks were supplied plentifully on the advances, but the selling ceased when the market showed signs of weakening. It was assumed that owners of large amounts of stock were taking advantage of the recent rise to reduce their holdings. The short interest was reported to have met with serious reverses. Large stop loss orders, especially in United States Steel, have been uncovered on the advance, and the attack on the bears was carried on again with success today. The northwestern railroads were the conspicuous points of strength. Trading in these stocks was stimulated by reports of increasing business, owing to the movement of crops. Gross earnings of the Great Northern in October showed an increase of more than $600,000.

Among the eastern roads, Reading, Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley and Baltimore & Ohio stood out prominently with gains of a point or more. Baltimore & Ohio crossed par for the first time in several weeks. The special ties which have been prominent recently were in the background today, although a number of stocks which are General Electric, National Biscuit and International Harvester, made good gains. United States Steel rose to above 60, its highest price since the violent break after Bill of the government's dissolution suit. Texas company dropped five points to 83.34, its lowest figure of the year, and a fall of more than fifty points from the year's high record.

Increased earnings from steel manufacturers even at the present low level of prices were foreseen in the report that railroads touching the steel and iron districts of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio would be sold to the United States Steel corporation since the latter part of October has been considerably larger. London continued to sell stocks here. Transactions for the London account aggregated about $5,000,000, of which $2,000,000 were sold on balance with the chief dealings in United States Steel and Reading.

The bond market was firm with a good distribution of business. American Tobacco issues were heavy in the late trading. Total sales, par value, $4,091,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.
